

Evaluation of Spinal Stability

Images courtesy of Melville MRI, P.C.

Clinical Case Overview

The recumbent scan (left) demonstrates minor degenerative anterolisthesis at L4/5. The upright-flexion study (right) reveals further anterior slip of L4 on L5. These scans show hypermobile translational spinal instability, which can be a surgical indication in a case of related low back pain.